Suzanne beads in her free time.
It is her hobby.

Sometimes she beads on a loom and sometimes she beads by hand.

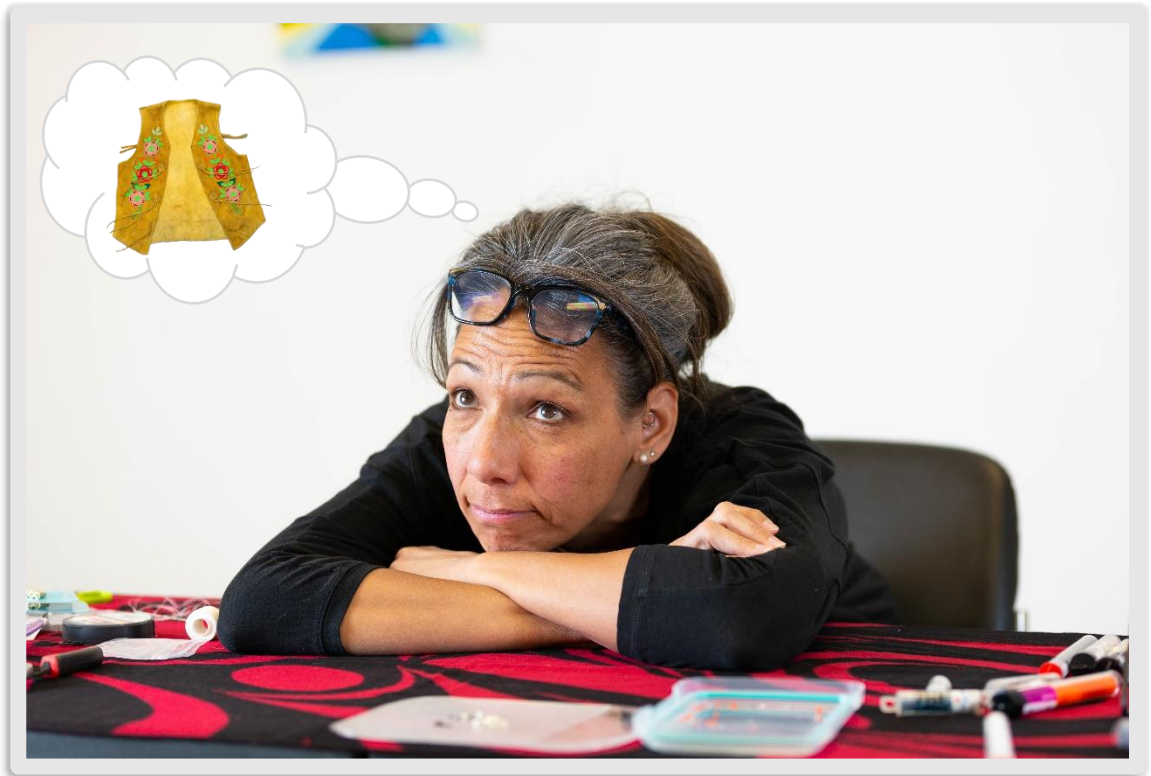

She has made a lot of jewelry.

She doesn't know what to make next.

She thinks about beading on moccasins but that will take too much time.

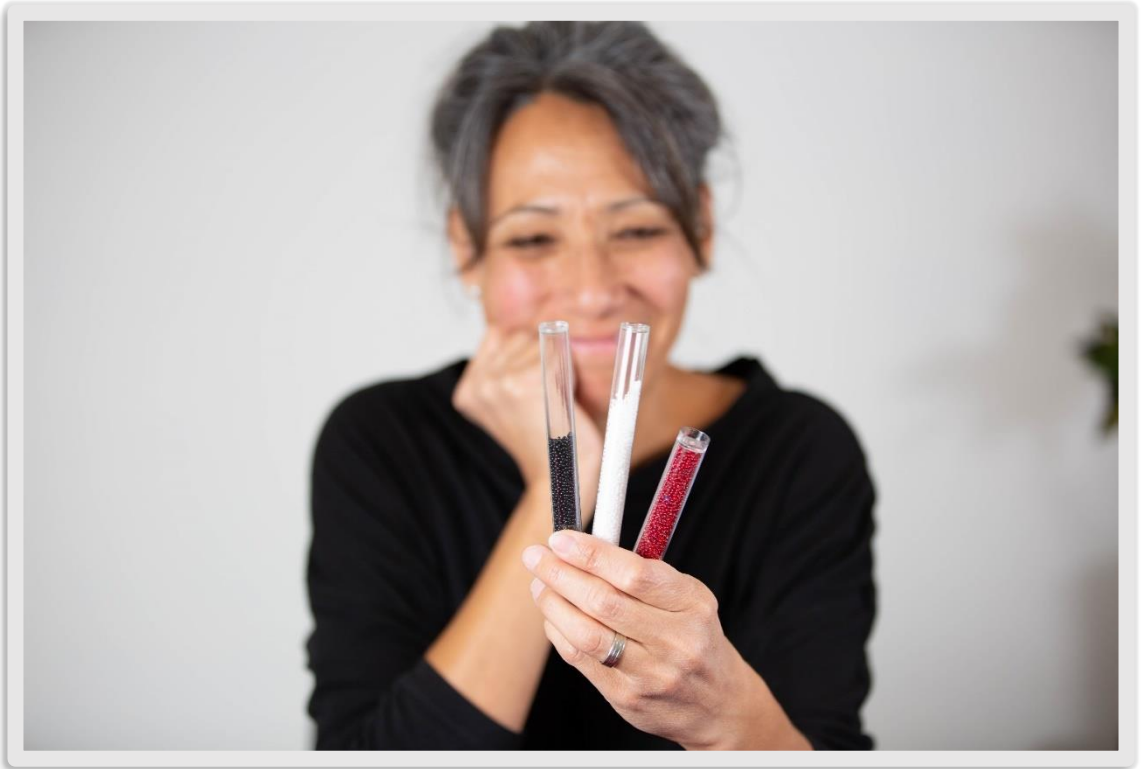

She thinks about beading on a vest but she doesn't have any green beads.

Suzanne decides to make a bracelet.

She doesn't want to use yellow or blue beads.

She wants to use red, black and white beads because they are Tahltan colours.

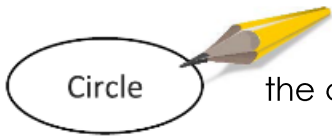

Suzanne is a member of the Tahltan First Nation in northwest British Columbia.

She draws a beautiful pattern.

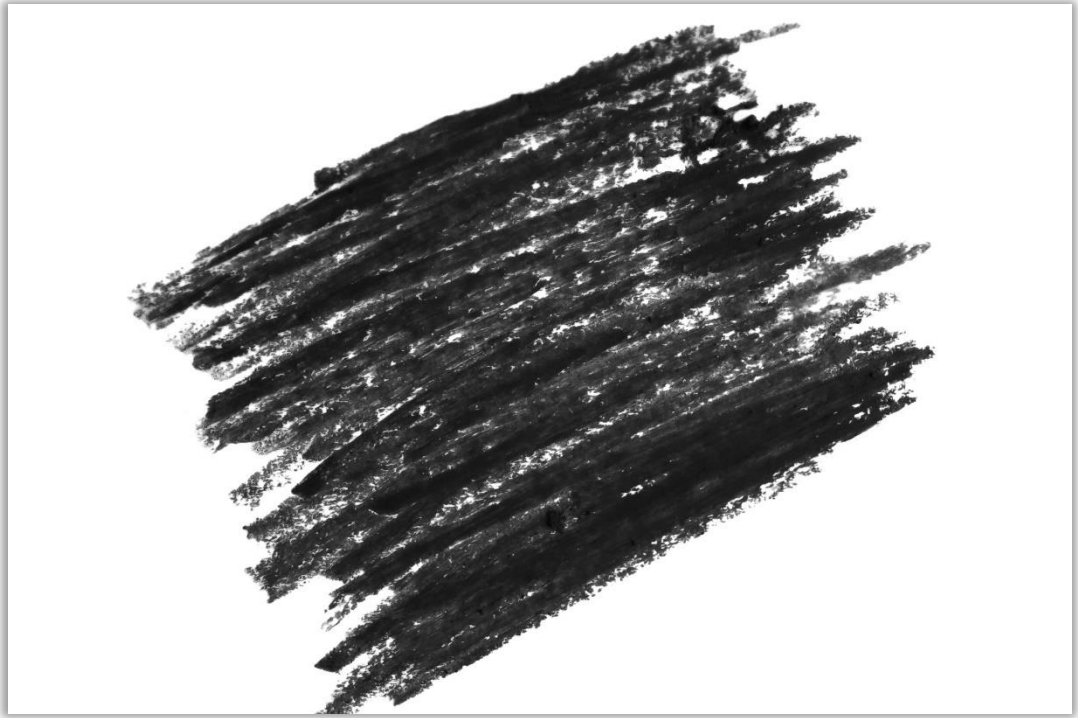

Suzanne stays up late and finishes the bracelet. It looks great!
